ARGOS WIN EIGHT STRAIGHT VICTORIES TO WIN DOMINION FOOTBALL TITLE

BRITAIN'S NEW HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

Middleweight Title

Toronto Argonauts are Dominion football champions for 1933. In one of the greatest struggles ever witnessed on an eastern grid, a game which out-thrilled even the thrilling Whaling-Arps till the week previous. Barnie Imprie's went down to a 4-3 defeat in the dying moments of the game. Played on a snow-covered gridiron, in zero weather, the two teams turned in almost flawless football, only one fumble that was at all costly occurring. That was by Barnie, late in the third period and it gave Argos the tying point when Ab Box was able to hold the pickup over the Barnie line. One of the dramatic plays of the game has been caught by the photographer in the illustration, pushed their way so within ten yards of the Barnie line called on their tanks; Tommy Burns and Ted Morris to push over for a touch. Argos were trailing by two points at the time, but the Imperial line, which had stopped Burns and Morris all afternoon, did the trick again, so they called back Burns again, this time for a placement kick. The object of the game meant that the three points from that kick would result in victory or defeat. Burns made no mistake and here we see the two teams anxiously watching as the ball soared up and between the goal-slits to put Argos ahead, 3-2. In the lower picture, Jack Taylor is seen running with the ball, with Barnie ladders in hot pursuit. Argos played twelve games through the season. They won their first two league games, then won eight straight victories to claim the championship.

LEN HARVEY AND FAMILY

Jack Peterson of Walsby had been pointed when he defeated the formidable as the outstanding heavy-liner champ, Al Royal Albert Hall weight of the British Isles for the "morning after" with Mrs. Harvey, past year or so. But it took Len and son "they reading the heavy message of congratulations ability to knock Peterson from his record.

WINTER SPORT—Here are a few of the tourists in St. Petersburg, Fla., lined up for their nightly shuffleboard battle.

THIS BLACK HAWK LINE WILL BE A R WATCHING

One of the best forward lines in hockey this year has been doing more trouble for opposing defenses than almost any other line. The only thing they cannot do properly is score once they have beaten everybody on the ice but the goalie.

Their play around the nets will need to be polished up. And if Tommy Gorman leaves it, it will be before long as that the other N.H.L. teams will need to keep a sharp eye on this line.

FLUKE GOAL GIVES LEAFS VICTORY OVER CHICAGO

The Toronto Maple Leafs couldn't get behind the Chicago goal-line as they shot out in front. The rubber disc was in some manner deflected, and when Gorman found it was lodged in the corner of his net. But Charlie Cooney was the first to see it. It gave the Leafs a 1-0 victory.

—from behind. When Charlie over the Hawks. The above illustration shows Gorman on the ice with Paul Thompson, while Tuffy Abel has his stick down on the goal-mouth. The charging Leafs are Bud Horner, left, and Harvey

RETURN AFTER CRUISE THROUGH CARIBBEAN SEA

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bapty, Deloro, Describe Sights

Marmora (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bapty of Deloro, have just returned to their home after a vacation of two weeks spent in cruising through the Caribbean on the S. S. "Marmora". While on the "Marmora" they had the pleasure of meeting with Dr. Macdonald, formerly of Marmora, who has been presiding in Port of Spain for some years. Dr. Macdonald is enjoying good health and apparently is very busy in his practice. Calls were made at La Guayra, Venezuela, at Caracas, a Dutch island where the American legation is located and also at a discount, and at Christobal and Colon on the Atlantic entrance to the Panama Canal.

The Canal is always an interesting point to visit, due to the number of steamers constantly arriving there from all parts of the world. In Havana, Cuba, the last port of call, the steamer was called to the surface, but from conversations with residents living there it was learned that a considerable amount of interesting facts and stories is being told which may happen before the steamer again becomes known. Young boys in their "tents" are called to come to high thrones and seated down with ammunition. These represent the colonies of ants who are practically in control at the moment.

One of the driving boys was shot dead, due to the strange reason of falling to one side after given by the steamer the upper story of the vessel exploded in different parts of the city while the steamer was there. After the second revolution the steamer returned to the city and the large National Hotel, which was subsequently demolished by the army and navy. A visit was made to the city and the destruction wrought by the explosion of the steamer was seen. While Cuba is a lovely country, but at present it is suffering terribly on account of the revolution.

"It was quite a contrast to receive from a temperate of one or more men in the ship to see before men," states Mr. Bapty.

Plan for Better Control of Colds Proved by Tests

Windsor, Ont.—A plan for better control of colds has been developed by the makers of Vicks Vapo-Rin, the modern, external way of treating colds. The plan is based on the fact that colds are caused by the action of Vicks Vapo-Rin on the mucous membranes of the nose and throat. The plan is to use Vicks Vapo-Rin in the form of a spray or inhalant, which will reach the mucous membranes directly and destroy the cold germs. Wright Brothers First Flight Made 30 Years Ago

New Science Was Born When "Childlike" Craft Soared Into the Air and Initiated New Epoch in Transportation — First Flight December 17

CHRISTMAS CHIMES—An unusual and idealistic painting by Stanhope.

By LEON E. HORTON
 Of the first Canadian Wrights—Orville and Wilbur Wright—of Dayton, Ohio, Dec. 17-18, 1903, a day little man his alone today, running over the past. His mind may wander back but they have, North Carolina, where, for the first time, a man soared from the earth in a heavier-than-air craft. It is that man, Orville Wright.

The First Flight
 On December 17, 1903, the brothers Orville and Wilbur Wright gave their invention another dynamism in which to move. As their curious home-made, biplane, scattered and then actually left the ground in a successful flight, a new science was born.

Today planes streak across the sky, day and night, jetstreams are used along the pathways of the air. Plans for regular scheduled service to Europe are under way and the South Atlantic already is spanned by a commercial service. The public has come to accept air travel—but it was different 20 years ago. Here is the story of that first flight.

Impulsion From Toy
 Orville and Wilbur, sons of Bishop Milton Wright and Susan Wright, were reared in a small Ohio town. Both boys had a distinct leaning for mechanics and experimentation with tools and crude equipment. The birth of the aircraft dates back nearly to the day, when both boys were nine, and their father, Bishop Wright brought home a toy to them, a winged intruder. They broke the little toy their father brought them and then drove data to making another one. They made many of them after that, and the first series of aircraft inventions were born in their minds.

Years later when they were young men—Lambert was killed in an accomplished pilot flight. This occurred in 1890. The two boys then ran a bicycle shop. They began experimenting with gliders and studying tables on air pressure and aerodynamics generally, with windmills and other elementary apparatus. They conceived the idea of lifting wings for lateral balance and under the weight of their tiny living room, they worked out their theories with a biplane inner tube box that cost less than a cent, though destined to mean millions as nears compass forward flight.

The Dayton Trail
 They evolved the horizontal rudder, and finally decided they were ready to try out their craft. The first glider flight was staged on January 29, 1900, working at home in August 1899, and they were encouraged by the results of Dayton. They sought a place for experiment, with a hill for take-off and a soft landing spot, where winds were likely to be steady, and were advised by the weather bureau at Washington, D. C. to Kitty Hawk, North Carolina. They went there in 1901 and 1902, working at home in their workshop during the summer.

They were dissatisfied with the air pressure tables evolved by Prof. Langley of the Smithsonian Institution, and worked out their own, through the aid of a wind tunnel. And with neighbors spreading gas up about their "childish" manœuvre they evolved a propeller and a one engine for their "flying machine", while Wilbur served on the wings of the craft in the Wrights' backyard.

Breaks Come True
 In the late fall of 1903 they went south again. With two spectators, after shooting away the native resistance plan infusing the territory, Wilbur tested the plane first on December 14th. The test was short-lived, however, and the craft suffered minor damage. Wilbur and Orville spent the next few days repairing their invention, and on December 17th, man flew for the first time in a craft heavier than air. Orville made the first flight and, though it lasted only twelve seconds, it is acknowledged as the paternity of Daedalus' dream-construction.

Orville went up at 10:35 in the morning, records show. At 11:25 a.m., Wilbur took to the air again, increasing the distance covered by a small margin. At 11:40 a.m. Orville went up again, the flight measuring 175 feet. At noon, Wilbur made a fourth trial, and that trial definitely proved to the brothers that they were on the right track.

The seaplane traveled 85 feet and lasted 59 seconds.

Wilbur was 36 years old at that time and Orville 32.

An Amazing Record
 The years that followed that pioneering occasion are a matter of record. Quickly the two brothers improved on their seaplane to improve it. They hired a new machine, the Dayton and made little flights by the dozen. They soon had flights of 24 miles duration, their craft catapulting through the air at the amazing speed of 38 miles an hour. France Germany and England begged them for rights to their invention, while implicitly affirming the United States' position as its owner. Finally, however, President Theodore Roosevelt heard about their craft and forested the lesser officials in come hearing to the two brothers.

Wright, Orville and their sister Katherine, who was a prize tactician in their work, were filed by kings and European royalty. They staged exhibitions for King Edward VII of England, King Alfonso of Spain, King Victor Emmanuel of Italy and Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany. They were acclaimed by the millions of laymen and lords alike.

statement at 8 p.m.

Finally they settled down quickly to the manufacture of their seaplane in Dayton. But Wilbur died in 1912 and his father followed him in 1917. Orville lived on with his elder son in 1908, he married Henry Hartsfield, editor of the Kansas City Star, and succumbed to a short illness in 1919.

Today, Orville is alone. A monument marks the spot in Kitty Hawk where he launched the first flight with his brother, Wilbur. The original model is on display in the Science Museum, South Kensington, London. The Smithsonian Institution in Washington, for a long time considered that Prof. S. P. Langley's invention was the first flying machine. So Orville sent his seaplane to England.

The younger Wright brother has died now, at the age of 62. The first plane in actual flight

NEW AIR ODYSSEY

Col. Lindbergh and his wife have finished their odyssey of travel to Europe. It was not a mere smash-the-record trip, but one which demonstrated the efficiency of the plane as a means of transportation and to map out a way of travel.

First of all, Col. Lindbergh has proven his right to being named as the greatest aviator in the world. He has shown that he is a man who is not only a pilot, but a man who is a hero.

Secondly, he has shown that the airplane is a means of transportation which is not only fast, but also safe. He has shown that the airplane is a means of transportation which is not only fast, but also safe.

CHRISTMAS TRADITIONS

Christmas permits of many lovely traditions and ceremonies, honored by time. Ceremonies are usually developed over long periods of time and they are still growing. Tendencies of today may in some cases have become crystallized and formalized into ceremonial.

One of the most beautiful is the candle light service which is growing in popularity. In several local churches this young of the mission circles and the young girls were those taking part.

Another is the story of the Nativity. This is a story which is told in many ways. In some churches it is told in a play, in others it is told in a story.

There is also the story of the Three Kings. This is a story which is told in many ways. In some churches it is told in a play, in others it is told in a story.

THE CHRISTMAS TRUCK
This year, dad, he says to me,
"Now son, remember when you write me, I'll know that you're home,
I'm in a pretty sorry plight!
He's had a mighty quick trip,
Depression of the kind I'm clutch.
And I'd suggest right now and here
You'd better not demand too much!"

Well, dad, he's generally right
About such things, an' very wise;
An' I can see that funny light:
That says: "No foolin' in his eyes.
An' so I just sit very still
Upon his knee an' try to think
Of something that will fill his bill,
An' yet not make him say: "Santa blink!"

I think of quite a lot of things,
Of trifles an' of kiddle-cakes,
Of games with colored pegs an' rings,
All painted up with modern art,
But suddenly just when it seems
That I am gettin' sorta stuck,
I startle dad from out his dreams
An' shout, "I'd like a motortruck!"

"Well, well," says dad, "I guess you mean
One of those little ones
All painted up in red and green,
That toots its whistle when it runs.
I'll lose no time, but go today,
And see if he has one in stock.
And maybe if he's no delay
You'll find one in your Christmas sack."

On Christmas morning when I ran
To look beneath the Christmas tree,
There stood my truck all sparkling 'gain,
"With wheels that wheeled an' lights to see."
An' he had a horn that you could blow,
Straight down the hallway she would go,
An' scare my little cat and pup,
But pretty soon, my dad, he comes
An' starts to turn my truck for me,
An' says: "First lesson in the game,
Just watch that turn the curves, by gee!"

Next year I think that I will write
A note to Santa Claus and say:
"Please bring me dad a motortruck,
So I'll get some chance to play."
By H. Reginald Hardy.

KINDA HARD finding new material for this column when the air is filled with Christmas to the exclusion of almost anything else. Belleville is experiencing a brighter and let us hope a better Christmas for the year. The business section, result of the enterprise of Belleville merchants and the Hydro Commissioners, presents a very attractive appearance, and visitors from outside the city. The residential section also, is taking on the holiday spirit, with lights and decorations on the houses and trees on the verandas, shining for Christmas greetings to all who may pass that way.

Strolling through CENTRAL PARK, New York City, recently, a woman laid a string of matched pearls, valued at seventy thousand dollars. Another woman found the pearls but could not find value in them. Her husband, however, knew his way about and looked up the Lost Diamonds for her and found the pearls.

The pearls were returned and the reward paid over. The incident was perfect with one exception. The woman who found the pearls was employed by a woman who was a reporter and camera man and she discharged her and losing the job just naturally took the pep out of the five thousand dollar windfall.

THERE'S A NEW VOICE on the air, George Cohen, author of "Over There," and other popular ballads of war and peace. When appears Sunday evenings taking "Will Rogers' place," will bring busy listeners a picture of George Cohen is always different and on the air he appears with new songs of his own composition, such as "The Last Roundup" and "Amie Does Not Live Here Any More."

There's a new picture on the air, "Write a Song that is Worth Listening to." Ten stitches did the doctor have to put in her husband after the fight with old car last night! "Ten was it, Mr. Roan?" Sure when the doctor said his husband carried in, says he: "Has any man got a sewing-machine?"

Christmas

Now in hell and cottage holly wreaths are hanging.

Home is bright and cheery with the Christmas glow.

It is to home and friends we are true.

Once again their children are in the long ago.

Every care and worry to the wind they're flying.

Cardless of the sorrows that the years have brought.

Oh! the happy spirit of goodwill they're bringing.

Counting all the passions of the years as naught.

Gladness is the greeting; free the joyous giving.

In it does the semblance of our Lord appear:

That the Christmas spirit makes a life throughout the year.

Oh! its tender lessons night lay through the year.

"There's Christmas morning,
Hear the Old Year friends,
But everybody thinks of something
Old days, old times, old friends."

Once again we come to practically the end of another year's activities in the world of sport with no uniform reports despite many so-called to be best sport organizations. Other phases of life seem to repeat the activities of the year just past as with the sport world, however, many have learned to find a new way for forgetting past failures. All they have is present happiness, whether it be in victory or defeat.

NEWS
is the Dynamo of Business

Seldom before has there been so much important news! Rarely have people waited so eagerly for their copies of daily newspapers. These are the days when "new things happen"; when the whole world seems bent upon making itself over.

Try to imagine the past year without newspapers as a reliable source of information. You will picture a country blind and paralyzed, a prey to rumor and fear and almost certain chaos.

Following the news has become a habit in our lives; almost like breathing or eating. Our conversation, our opinions, our actions are based on what we read in newspapers.

Advertising in the newspapers is, for this reason, more than advertising. It is part of the force that is generated by the great dynamo of news—the force by which people act and think.

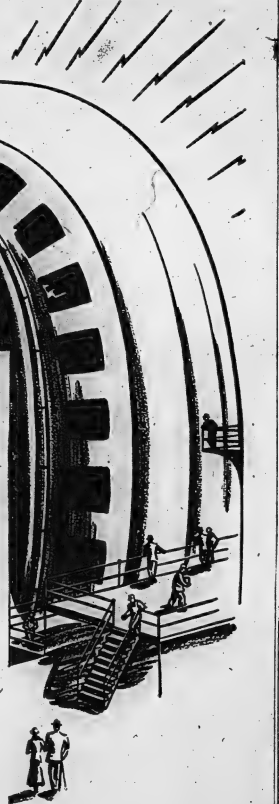

Newspaper advertising, like the news, is born fresh daily—timed to the minute—sparkling with the energy and action of each day's events.

It reaches virtually everyone who can be reached at all by any advertising, because whatever else people do, they read the newspapers today and will read them again tomorrow.

When you think of this, it is little wonder that advertisers in increasing numbers are harnessing their sales message to this dynamo called the news.

They are directing its mighty force at markets which are most promising. They are timing it to day-to-day sales opportunities.

If you want to see your sales curve rise with the return of business, put your advertising message in the pages of this newspaper. Put this great dynamo of news to work for you.

Newspaper advertising gets to everybody every day-- and gets there FIRST.

Found Frozen in Back Yard of Home at Wooler

Might Have Fallen or Lost Way or Lain Out All Night

COMFORTABLE HOME

Not Seen For Day Previous to Discovery of Body in Yard

WOOLER, Dec. 28.—(Special)—Miss Georgina Smith, 75 years of age and a life-long resident of this community, was found frozen to death in the late last morning at four o'clock, Thursday.

The lady Miss Smith was living alone in a comfortable and commodious home in a residential section of the town. She was very highly liked when discovered by a neighbor, Herman Stewart, who had been in the yard to get some mail, and returned to Wooler to say her about, late Wednesday afternoon, when she was making the discovery.

She was found lying on her back, with her arms and legs extended, and her head resting on the ground. She was wearing a dark dress and a white apron. Her face was pale and her hands were cold.

She was found in the back yard of her home, which is situated on a corner lot. The yard is well kept and the house is a comfortable and commodious one.

WHAT SORT OF WINTER

The present cold spell with the series of changes which have upset all calculations as to the weather, has been a source of anxiety to the people of the north. The series of changes which have upset all calculations as to the weather, has been a source of anxiety to the people of the north.

Most persons will now agree that the weather does change. The change will be spread over a great period of time. Rapid changes in the weather, however, are not unusual, and should not be a source of anxiety.

Some men predicted a moderate winter and even after the first of November in the latter end of October they were brave enough to risk reputations with the prediction that the first of November would see the most of the snow for the season.

Some of the "fools" in the crowd have fallen. Some of the "fools" in the crowd have fallen. Some of the "fools" in the crowd have fallen.

Some on the other hand pointed to the great cold which has since come, as preparing by some uncanny instinct for the great cold which has since come.

"A GUID NEW YEAR!" When ice has grappit born an 'n'ke, An' frosty roads get caftern like, When crunched potato chips are made, And the change will be spread over a great period of time.

Here in the strath there's a muckle steer At that birth season of the year; What's the cauldrie winter dear Is at our lugs!

Just picture a' within the hoose: The lass, the folk folk—kind an' cross; The wairks waifs—waifs—as quair a' noose— That lie in bed;

"A GUID NEW YEAR!" When ice has grappit born an 'n'ke, An' frosty roads get caftern like, When crunched potato chips are made, And the change will be spread over a great period of time.

Royal Bank Annual Statement Shows Strong Liquid Position

Liquid Assets At $362,471,645 Are Equal To $5.76 Per Cent. Of Liabilities To The Public Total Assets At End Of Year Were $729,260,476

Gratifying Increase Of Over $18,000,000 In Canadian Savings And In Demand Deposits—Many Businesses Evidently Showing Large Turnover.

The Annual Statement of the Royal Bank of Canada, covering the year which ended December 31st, has just been made available to the public.

The total of $19,000,000 investment in the Dominion Government securities represents an increase of $1,750,000 over the previous year. A small increase in the Canadian Government securities and British Empire Government securities.

Many certain lines of business are less active than a year or two ago. The Royal Bank has experienced a demand for their products in the recent months, with the result that inventories have been brought down to abnormally low figures.

A feature of the Bank's year was the increase of $44,000,000 in loans and discounts. Commercial credits increased by $10,000,000, against $9,000,000, and $1,500,000, against $1,000,000, in the year.
